

A few weeks ago it was announced from Hot Springs that a cow belonging to J. M. Reynolds near that city was the mother of triplet calves, and the item has attracted widespread attention because of the rare occurrence chronicled.

Triplet Calves Born in Lawrence County.

Advices have just been received by Manager T. W. Milan of the state world's fair commission that Powhatan, Lawrence county, has come to the front with a similar incident. L. B. Poindexter of that place is the owner of a Shorthorn registered cow that is the mother of triplet calves, now four months old and thriving. The same cow previously was the mother of twin calves. In all probability arrangements will be made to have the cow and the triplets exhibited at the world's fair, in which event blue ribbons and premiums and any other honors suitable in the premises will be showered upon the Lawrence county cow.

While on a visit to Hot Springs lately Manager Milan secured a photograph of the cow and triplet calves on Mr. Reynolds' place. He left last night for north Arkansas, and while in that part of the state he will visit Powhatan and see Mr. Poindexter's cow and calves.
